2019 NOVUM

Novum, like the Inception movie but for wine…

Will Hoare's family have been growing Marlborough fruit since 1977, while he started his wine career as a cellarhand at the famed Fromm Winery. 19 years later, working up to Fromm's General Manager, he left to start out on his own. As a second-generation grower, Will strong network of contacts and friends in the region gave him and his wife Rachel, rare opportunities to access tiny pockets of excellent vineyards from across the region.
Novum focuses on extracting only the very best parcels from vineyards within vineyards. As soil types and aspects can vary considerably even in a seemingly homogenous vineyard, they seek those 'sweet spots' that consistently produce superior fruit. The consequence of this approach is, of course, extremely limited production… like the movie, from vineyards with vineyards!

2019 Chardonnay - 95 Points Ned Goodwin, MW Australia
"A limpid pale yellow augurs restraint. Very savoury. Chalky and oyster shell-saline, with the fruit a flashback rather than primary focus. Riffs on oatmeal biscuit, apricot pith, barley sugar, nashi pear and raw cashew are reeled across a spool of tensile acidity, punctuated with a gentle pucker. A high-wire act, this is balletic in its elegance and confident in the way it moves across the mouth. Some sexy oak nestled in there somewhere as an adjunct rather than a scream. Nothing jangly or coarse. Just strident, persuasive and extremely fine of length and feel. Drink now and through 2029"

2019 Pinot Noir - 94 Points Ned Goodwin, MW Australia
"I like this. A lot! Atypically NZ in its structural meld of fine- boned tannins, sandy latticework of acidity and something salty and moreish. The structure is the totem, sure, but the core of subtle fruit creeps up: damson plum, bloodstone, bing cherry, orange zest and a cinnamon twirl of oak. There is nothing too sweet, cloying or overly exuberant about this. The voice is one of measured, mid-weighted refinement. A benchmark for the region."
